EDUCATIONAL ALERT SERVICE IS LAUNCHED

Do you ever wish that a great professional trader would tell you their trades before they make them so you too could benefit from their expertise and profit financially from it as well?

Now you can.

The EZ program is headed up by our Own AWARD WINNING Master Trader who spends hours each day using very advanced technical analysis techniques to define specific points in the market that are critical for continuations, breakouts and most importantly reversals (reversal areas offer the greatest reward for least risk). While all the currency crosses are analyzed, we determine the

Trading Tips

There is a thin blue line on the Wild Card trade setup. It is called a T3 and is a standard indicator. How to use it? You will notice that in trending markets, the market retraces back to it quite often, but it acts as it's own Support and/or Resistance. The market has a tendency to "bounce" off this indicator indicating the retracement is just that—only a retracement. If the T3 does NOT hold it WATCH OUT. More on the T3 is in the Wild Card Tutorial!

Don't Get Married!

(To Your Idea of What the Market MUST Do) But Do Get Married To....(read on to learn "what")

by Nick Kanger ProAct Co-Founder

I thought of this title because in any market, there are Buyers and there are Sellers. Consequently, the price goes up, only to go back down and vice-a-vs.

Of course, there is the "trend". Is it up? Down? On what time frame? 5 minute? 60 minute? 4 hour? Day? Has there been a major trend shift? Or, is this just a temporary "directional" shift? Is that a Bear Flag on the 30? Oh but there's also simultaneous Bull Flag on the 240. Which one is valid? Will price break north? Or, reverse south?

Getting the idea? I could go on and on with hundreds of ways to analyze (notice the first 4 letters of that word) and habitually over-think "where the market is at". And, "where's it going to go".

The truth is: NO ONE knows where price is going next. Only that it's definitely going to go up or down. Never sideways within a one pip range for more than a few ticks. So, what to do?

One of the aspects that I love about the ProAct Chart Trade Setups is that they are strictly rules-based. While perfect (nothing is in the FX) by no means, they have and continue to be proven, STATISTICALLY sound to the point that allows progressive (go to pg 4...)

SMARTER TRADING: HSI and Retracements

When do you change the HSI?
If a currency "pulls back" 100 pips or more you should leave the original HSI targets on and put another set from the high/low of the Pullback. It is also a good idea when you have hit a reversal HSI target (R5/S5 or higher) to use the HSI in the opposite way to see when to expect an end to the retracement.
THE HSI TOOL HAS PROVEN TO BE VERY ACCURATE IN PREDICTING MOVEMENTS TO TARGETS

SMARTER TRADING:

WE ARE REPRINTING THIS TO DRIVE THE MESSAGE HOME!

USE THE PROACT PROJECTOR to find the ends of market pulses. When momentum enters the market it is seeking a target. The ProAct charts catch this momentum and using the PAT Projector will show you where it will stall. See Next Page

If you don't know how to use this tool, check out the tutorial on our website or ask on one of the calls!

PAT PROJECTOR CLASS

You can use the PAT Projector tool to determine the logical place for this pulse to stall and then continue on to the targets. The key is seeing the Pulse come into the market which can be a WHITE DOT (60 min movement) or the 10 min Wild Card (arrow and painted candle). No other charts in the world can do this!

gains over the long haul. They depict momentum better than any charts in the world that have all kinds of new gizmo type indicators. And the HSI Tool, when properly used, is worth the price of the chart subscription alone

So, what to do? (again) Having lost and made more money than most aspiring traders, I'll share with you what it finally took me to start achieving (and maintaining) success as a trader.

First, you've got to put the time in. Study.....

Study.....then, Study some more. Study so you KNOW the rules so that they are purely instinctual. In other words: You act (or don't act) instantaneously. Then, what you see on the charts will instill confidence in your decision-making process and you start to "get into the flow" of the market. It's a wonderful experience but it takes dedication.

Next, be patient with yourself. Don't force yourself into making trades that your instincts tell you are not right. If you ever enter a trade and you feel ANY nervousness or stress, you've probably succumbed to "reacting" to the market, rather than "planning" your trade. Or, you've over-leveraged the trade and are freaking when it goes against you. By planning your trades with proper margin management, you should NEVER, EVER, experience a sense of stress or uncomfortable-ness. When you can get to this level, you have achieved what all full-time professional traders have and that's.....

Discipline.....Here's another question: Ever enter a trade, go to bed and then wake up every hour or so with heart pounding opening up the charts and your dealing station? And hoping (sometimes praying) that you didn't get stopped out? You know why that happens right? No plan, no money management, no discipline.

So again, "What to do?"

If you're going to continue on your quest to become a great trader, first of all, don't beat yourself up. You are not unique when it comes to losing money. Everyone does. But do go off to a quiet spot, be alone, and absolutely vow and promise to yourself that you'll STOP doing the things you know you shouldn't, and start doing the things you should. And you know what? It really is that simple. Discipline works. Lack of it means you're gambling. And the odds are then stacked against you.

Last (and I promise I'll stop blabbering).....Did you know that DREAMS REALLY DO COME TRUE??? (Of course you do). I don't care what religion you espouse or whether you're an atheist. There exist forces, whether from the God you believe in as a spiritual person, or from quantum physics if you're an atheist, that may be utilized to manifest your most cherished aspirations. But, like the time you spend manifesting anything, whether it's the meal you've prepared from thinking, "I'm hungry. I'm going to the supermarket. I'm buying the all the materials I need to make the meal I want. I'm home now preparing a delicious dinner. I'm eating the food. I, I, I, I'm not hungry anymore. I am soooooo satisfied and happy."

Now, as simplistic as that all sounds, when it comes to making dreams come true, that's the process. And then, it's just a matter of time. In order to "compress" time, (make things happen quicker) you must think about your dream, your goal, often. And, in a specific way. How? You must POSSESS IT. You must "own" it. You must....yes...become married to it. You must imagine that your dream already exist (It really does you know. You thought of it..it's YOUR dream). Then, place yourself, IN YOUR DREAM. Live it, feel it, let it overwhelm you (And I get goose-bumps while I say this because I imagined writing this letter to you. And here it's happening.) until every atom in your being vibrates with absolute joy and you are left with a profound sense of LOVE for your dream and the undeniable knowingness that it is yours. (go to pg 5...)

No one can take it from you. Do this once a day and NEVER give up immersing yourself in your dream, if even for a few minutes a day. And don't you dare be surprised when, your dream comes true as a real physical reality.

I wish all your dreams come true. Ours have. We get to serve some of the most wonderful souls on this planet, each day through ProAct, YOU..

greatest risk for reward currencies and then calculates reasonable stops and limits with the specific strategy to take advantage of the movement, should it occur.

Subscribers are then notified of this potential trade(s) IN ADVANCE via electronic media so you get it fast and can take action.

Not in front of your computer - NO PROBLEM! You receive a text message to your cell phone and can simply call your broker with your information. In front of your computer - CHECK YOUR EMAIL ALSO, since "EZ" alerts are sent using both technologies.

Who should use the EAS - "EZ" service?

Some traders lifestyles make trading in front of the computer at the right times difficult. This may be a J.O.B., single parent-hood, time zone restrictions to name a few. In addition, there are others whose passion is to be a great trader, but paying $20,000 to sit with a master trader for a week and trade side by side is just out of the question. You should seriously consider ProAct's "EZ" if you meet one or more of the criteria below:

- You job does not allow you to be in front of the computer during optimum trading times.
- You are struggling with your own trading, but determined to learn it. You just don't want to run out of margin before you get all the pieces together, and would like to "earn as you learn".
- You trade pretty well, but having the advance notice of a potential trade setup BEFORE a Wild Card, Royal Flush or 6 Aces, would really help bring your margin account up.
- You want to increase your knowledge of how the Big Boys trade and getting notification of a Big Boys trade will help you develop your advanced trading skills.
- You just want to learn and keep learning.

If any of the above is you, then you need to at least try it!

The Seamless Trade

By Bob Mauss ProAct Co-Founder

This article is to show how the ProAct trading system and the new Early Alert Service (EAS or EZ) work in conjunction with each other. The following is an actual trade I took on 8-27-08:

On 8-27-08 @ 8:00 PM there was a Royal Flush that had manifested itself on the EUR/JPY. Everything was green so I entered a buy @ 161.70.

By 8:30 PM my trade was up approx. 25 pips when an EZ call came to my cell phone. It was an EZ alert for a sell on the EUR/JPY at 162.00

My first impulse was, “Are you kidding me, this is a perfect Royal Flush going up. Why is EZ calling it down at 162.00?”

I then changed my Wild Card screen to a day chart and found there was a PSR (previous support & resistance) at 162.00.

In ProAct’s beta testing on the EZ system, it was found that the calls were well over 80% correct, so why should I go against those odds.

I immediately exited my buy @ 161.98 for a profit, then put in a sell order according to the EZ parameters at 162.00. (Note: it never got higher than 162.02).

By 9:00 the move started south and hit EZ’s target for another nice profit.

Special Note: At the time this article was written, 9-4-08 the market never looked back from 162.00 and currently sits at 151.00. What a move!

The point I wish to make is that a Royal Flush is very powerful trade setup and normally a trader will profit. However, equally important is to know the big picture, levels of previous support and resistance that are well known to the big boys: the banks, countries and corporations that move the market.

This is what the EAS service brings to the ProAct subscriber. It enables a trader to go to his higher compression charts and look for the reasons why the EAS Opinion was generated. It enhances the trader’s education and understanding toward becoming a professional trader.

I studied for 9 months, saved that whole time, traded 2 different demo accounts with outstanding success, then in my first 3 weeks of “live” trading lost all but $197 of the precious $6000 startup I had saved. I’m a mother to 6 children and I had not anticipated the psychological effect just a handful of losing trades with “real” money would have on me – plus was trading the GBP/USD (which I stay away from now) AND I had absolutely no money management plan in place. Lost all my confidence, wham, gone. My first week out with ProAct, I made 11 total trades, 9 successful. I’m trading such tiny, tiny lots that I’ve increased my account by $113 (which is actually aside from being such a tiny amount to begin with is a great increase!!!), BUT I figure I’m finally on the right track as far as getting my confidence back. I’m sure there is a reason for the initial devastating loss – possibly so I can one day prove to people that this can be done on a tiny amount – or possibly to help remind myself that securing pips consistently needs to be my focus right now, rather than profit.
